Introduction

2003 was the twelfth year the Assigned Counsel Program operated in all courts. It was also the year in which the Monroe County and the Monroe County Bar Association agreed to an amendment of the Monroe County Bar Association Sponsored Plan for Conflict Assignments to include provision for a Conflict Defender Office. Planning for such an office began in 2002 and culminated in the opening of the office in April 2003.

The amended plan calls for a permanent office staffed by at least seven attorneys and appropriate support staff. The attorneys in the office represent clients in conflict cases in Family Court, Rochester City Court and all of the appellate courts. All cases in Local Criminal Court and all felony cases are still assigned to private counsel under the Plan.

The following statistical information shows the Program's relative success in meeting the goals of the Monroe County Bar Association Sponsored Plan for Conflict Assignments as stated below.

"The objectives of this conflict assignments plan are to provide quality representation to eligible indigent defendants or other litigants in those cases where the Public Defender has a conflict of interest; to provide a coordinated and centralized assignment system for conflict cases arising in the courts specified in Article IV herein, to provide a more equitable distribution of conflict assignments among lawyers; to attract more lawyers willing to handle conflict assignments, to maintain uniform and proper billing practices; to ensure cost accountability of services, and to provide increased efficiency for the courts by making qualified attorneys more readily available to handle conflict cases." Monroe County Bar Association Sponsored Plan for Conflict Assignments, ARTICLE II. Plan Objectives

"To Provide Quality Representation"

The Program received only three initial complaints involving questionable, unethical or illegal conduct by participating attorneys. This is the lowest number of complaints received since the inception of the Assigned Counsel Program. Clients were the source of the complaints. The Monroe County Bar Association referred no complaints filed by clients. The Program has jurisdiction over open cases only. After investigation, the Assigned Counsel Program closed all complaints with no action taken against the attorney. All complaints were disposed of either by the attorney and client reaching a mutually acceptable understanding or by the attorney's withdrawal from the case with the permission of the court. The Program removed one attorneys from the panel lists due to suspension by the Appellate Division.

All complaints required only administrative action. No referral to the Assigned Counsel Program Review Committee was necessary.

The Program's Motion and Brief Bank now contains several hundred documents. No index is yet available. However, in 2003 more motions and other documents were converted to electronic format and posted on the Program's Internet web site. Access to the documents is restricted to Program participants.

In 2001, the Program started an electronic newsletter. During 2003, the newsletter was sent on a periodic basis to all panel members providing e-mail addresses to the Program. The weekly e-newsletter provides the panel members with more current and timely information than the printed newsletter of the past. The Program not only saved money in postage and printing, but increased the number of newsletters sent to the panel members. Information of a critical nature was sent conventionally. Throughout 2003 the Program sent the panel attorneys various bulletins and newsletters informing the panel members of upcoming seminars and events and encouraging them to take advantage of the opportunities offered by these programs to increase their knowledge and legal skills.

Since the CLE requirements of the Assigned Counsel Program overlap with the Mandatory Continuing Legal Education requirements of the State of New York, compliance is near 100%.

The Program's computer hardware and software systems were upgraded during 2003 and improvements were made to the database to accommodate the formation of the Conflict Defender Office. The Administrator upgraded and improved the Program's Internet site with better graphics and more information, more links to other sites of interest to panel members and the news and notes section was made more timely. Documents were added to the Motion and Brief Bank section of the web site.

"To Provide A Coordinated And Centralized Assignment System For Conflict Cases"

The Assigned Counsel Program is fully computerized. The Program enters all cases reported to it in a centralized database that tracks the representation from assignment through payment of the voucher. This system avoids duplication of representation by showing all open case for a particular client thus insuring that there is a continuity of representation if the client is arrested on new charges. This system also promptly closes any case thus clearing any potential conflict of interest that the Public Defender might have in representing the client in future case.

During 2003, the Program started a project to upgrade and enhance the case management program to provide more and faster information and to accommodate the needs of the Conflict Defender Office. Assignments referred by the courts continue to be assigned from a rotating list of available attorneys. The Program, thanks to the dedicated efforts of Toni Armstrong, is very successful in insuring continuity of counsel where a client is re-arrested on new charges even when the arrests span differing jurisdictions. Additionally, the Program continues to track conflict of interest information so that counsel is not unnecessarily assigned when the Public Defender could ethically continue.

"To Provide A More Equitable Distribution Of Conflict Assignments Among Lawyers"

While not perfect, the Program does achieve a significant improvement over the previous system of assignment of conflict cases. The Program constantly strives for new and better systems to distribute assignments more equitably among the participating attorneys. In criminal cases, the current system is highly effective. There are still several local criminal courts that do not fully utilize the services of the Program in the assignment of counsel. This sometimes leads to a client having multiple attorneys for different pending charges.

A reduction both in the number of attorneys accepting assignments and number of assignments accepted by attorneys who still take assignments, led to a situation where the distribution of cases was not as uniform as in past years. Experienced attorneys accepted fewer and fewer assigned cases, especially in serious felony cases. While the Program has experienced only an 8% reduction in the number of attorneys on the panels (compared to a statewide 30-40% reduction), the attorneys remaining are take fewer cases. This leads to a situation where a smaller number of attorneys are bearing the burden of assigned cases.

Hopefully passage of legislation raising the hourly rates paid under Article 18-B of the County Law to $60.00 per hour for misdemeanor and lesser cases and $75 per hour for all other cases will increase attorney participation.

Equitable distribution of cases remained low in Family Court cases. A mechanism must be found to address the inequities in Family Court assignments. The fact that a very few attorneys receive the bulk of the assignments places an undue burden on those attorneys and can impact directly on the quality of representation. More training through the appropriate committee of the Bar Association is necessary to familiarize the panel attorneys with local Family Court practice. The panel requirements should be reviewed with the Family Court judges to see if they are stringent enough. Lack of confidence in the quality of representation is a possible factor in the Judges' reluctance to use the full services offered by the Assigned Counsel Program. A Family Court component of a Trial Institute might alleviate the concern of the Family Court judges regarding the training of assigned counsel.

"To Attract More Lawyers Willing To Handle Conflict Assignments"

Included in this report is a list of new panel members added during 2003.

Although the Program takes every opportunity to remind the current panel members to apply for the more restrictive panels once they achieve the requisite qualifications. In 2003 the Program experienced an increase in the number of qualified felony attorneys. This might be credited to the anticipated rate increase effective January 1, 2004. The requirements for inclusion on a felony panel include having conducted a misdemeanor jury trial or participated in jury selection in such a case coupled with conduct of a bench trial. Since so few misdemeanor trials are held each year, it is difficult for an attorney to meet this requirement.

"To Maintain Uniform And Proper Billing Practices And To Ensure Cost Accountability Of Services"

The changeover to the Conflict Defender Office with its attendant move to a different facility, problems with the information services infrastructure at the new location and the required training of a new employee, led to a situation where the office became seriously deficient in the timely processing of payment vouchers. This backlog existed from April to September 2003. With the assistance of the Monroe County Department of Information Services and the hard work of the clerical staff, the backlog was erased.

The Program has returned to the processing of routine vouchers and sending them to the Judge within 48 hours of receipt. The Administrator reviews each voucher before processing to insure compliance with the voucher regulations and notifies each attorney of any noncompliance to educate the attorney on proper procedures. The review and notification help maintain proper and uniform billing practices among the participating attorneys.

"To Provide Increased Efficiency For The Courts"

Those courts fully utilizing the services of the Assigned Counsel Program report a positive impact on the efficiency in obtaining assigned counsel in conflict cases. They report a significant decrease in the burden on the court staff in finding attorneys willing to accept assignments, a decrease in the number of phone calls necessary to contact an attorney for assignment, a decrease in the voucher processing time since the vouchers are now clearly labeled as to the matter and already reviewed with comments by the Administrator, and a prompt response from the Assigned Counsel Program in obtaining assigned counsel.

In 1992, the County Executives Office began a program of training in Total Quality Management for the employees of Monroe County. That training continues. This training increases the efficiency of the internal operation and makes the Program more responsive to the needs of the Courts and the participating attorneys. The Strategic Framework of the Assigned Counsel Program is complete and development and refinement of the key result measures continues.

2004 Goals

The following are the goals for 2004:

- Continue scanning of selected documents from the Motion and Brief Bank so panel members can obtain electronic copies of the documents and so they can continue to be posted on the Internet for downloading.
- Add appellate attorney to the Conflict Defender Office.
- Add additional clerical staff to the Conflict Defender Office.
- Develop new distribution system for the E-Newsletter to reach more panel members
- Increase frequency of E-Newsletter distribution
- Improve Family Court assignment system
- Recruit more attorneys for the felony panels.
- Develop any necessary procedures to comply with the anticipated State of New York standards and requirements accompanying state contribution to increased assigned counsel fees under Article 18-B of the County Law.

2003 Assignments

The following charts show the assignments each attorney received in 2003. The number of assignments is higher than the number of cases referred because in some cases more than one attorney receives an assignment for a case. Also, an attorney might be assigned in 2003 to a case originally referred in a previous year. This occurs most often after a court relieves one attorney and either the court or the Assigned Counsel Program assigns a new attorney.

Several factors should be considered in looking at these tables. First, approved panel members receive more assignments than non-approved panel members do. Some of the attorneys with a low number of assignments are non-approved panel members. Most often, such an attorney is court assigned. Secondly, those attorneys gaining membership on a panel for the first time during 2003 will have fewer assignments in that panel because they were not on the panel for an entire year. Thirdly, an increasing number of attorneys declined a significant number of assignments, requested removal from the Program for long periods of time or resigned from the Program during 2003, especially the attorneys on the ABC felony panel. While the report includes non-approved attorneys, new panel members, attorneys declining appointments, and attorneys temporarily removed from panels at their own request, concentrating on those members who participated for the full year as approved members of a particular panel gives a truer picture of the equitable distribution of assignments.

The success of the program in achieving equitable distribution of cases is still excellent even when including all the attorneys and despite the decreasing number of participants. It is very good when concentrating on attorneys who started the year on a particular panel. The last column of each table contains a running percentage of the total assignments. The more attorneys listed in a table before the percentage reaches fifty suggests a more equitable case distribution in that panel.

Of particular significance in this report is the fact that in the criminal courts, where the Assigned Counsel Program assigns a large percentage of cases, there is a more even distribution of assignments. This is attributable to the fact that, by comparison, Family Court has a much lower percentage of cases assigned by the Assigned Counsel Program. Most assignments are directly by the court. Attaining more equitable distribution of cases is difficult, if not impossible. The Administrator and Advisory Committee must work diligently to provide a workable solution to the inequities of the Family Court assignments. Looking at the last column of the tables, it takes significantly fewer attorneys for the Family Court assignments to reach a high percentage than it does for the criminal court assignments.

2003 Case Distribution Graphs¹

1. In interpreting these graphs, keep in mind that new panel members, non-approved attorneys, attorneys declining assignments and attorneys temporarily removed from the panels skew the results.

2003 Table of Program Use by Judiciary

The table below shows the number of assignments for each Judge making at least one assignment during 2003. The table divides the assignments between those made through the Assigned Counsel Program and those made directly by the Judge. The last column shows the percentage of the total assignments that the Judge made through the Assigned Counsel Program. The statistics clearly show that Rochester City Court, which assigns the greatest number of cases in the County, is very high in percentage of cases assigned through the Assigned Counsel Program. Increasingly in 2003, the Local Criminal Courts assigned exclusively through the Assigned Counsel Program. These facts directly correlate to the fact that the distribution of cases among the attorneys is greatest for criminal cases. Conversely, the statistics show that Family Court has a very low percentage of cases assigned through the Assigned Counsel Program. Therefore, Family Court has a very uneven distribution of cases among the attorneys.
